Find Your Sense of Adventure on an Expedition Cruise

Journey to the heart of the most remote and untouched locations on the planet and encounter spectacular wildlife and landscapes unlike anywhere else. There has never been a better time to embark on an expedition cruise with an ever-increasing number of ships offering unique explorer voyages to Antarctica, the Arctic, South America and the Kimberley.

Artists Impression

Seeking Adventure

Expedition ships take fewer passengers than larger ships – anywhere from 50 to 500. Higher crew to guest ratios allows for a unique and intimate cruise experience. Cruise in comfort and enjoy gourmet cuisine. Listen to informative lectures on the ecology, geology, culture and history of the area you're visiting.

Onshore excursion options are plentiful with this type of cruise, offering you the chance to explore the diverse ecological terrains and cultural wonders. Most adventure ships have inflatable Zodiacs which allow passengers to get 'up close and personal' with nature and wildlife. Some ships even have helicopters on board to provide an extraordinary view of the destination.

Unique and Enriching Destinations

Antarctica – Sailing to “The White Continent”

Antarctica may very well be the last frontier for cruise travellers – a once in a lifetime cruise to “The White Continent” that is talked about for years after the voyage ends. Add to that an extraordinary array of wildlife: fur seals, penguins, albatross, Elephant seals and whales. THE SEASONS OF ANTARCTICA

After being inspired by David Attenborough's fabulous documentaries, you may be considering a trip to Antarctica. There are so many ways to discover this destination, and it can be quite daunting, so to assist with at least one decision, here is our easy guide to when you may like to go...

November – This is mating and nesting time for birds with much in-fighting over prime positions. On the Antarctic Peninsula, it is a great time for snowy mountain peaks, falling snow and ice floes (sheets of floating ice). You will be arriving at the same time as the local critters and witness the excitement of long-apart reunions.

December – On the Antarctic Peninsula, Gentoo, Adelie and Chinstrap penguins will be nesting their eggs. At South Georgia, the first King penguin baby chicks will start to hatch towards the end of the month. Expect icebergs and glaciers to be floating by.

January – Births abound with almost all penguin species now with young chicks to raise and busy parents feeding their growing young. If you are lucky you may see tabular icebergs (detached from ice shelves) floating by. The Terns, Petrels & Albatross arrive in South Georgia along with Antarctic fur seals and mighty elephant seals. The Antarctic Peninsula will also host Orca, Whales and Cape Petrels.

February – Antarctic fur seals head down to the Antarctic Peninsula and hiking is now possible. In South Georgia the young penguins, fur seals and elephant seals are learning new skills and exploring their world. Orcas are attracted to the rich hunting grounds on the Peninsula and whales come for the large krill stocks.

March – Very similar to February with the baby animals growing fat under their parents careful ministrations. Young penguins will start to hit the ocean to learn to fish and all are gearing up to head north again before April when the weather will start to chill.
